Main mediation practice areas

Although I have been serving as a mediator in domestic and international matters including commercial, sports, family business disputes for the last sixteen years, I have completed some interesting pilot projects in Turkey such as Restorative Justice Programme with Ministry of Justice, a School/Peer Mediation Project with a well-known foundation and a training programme focused on working women with Kayseri Chamber of Commerce. In 2013, the peer mediation training programme developed by me was adopted by Turkish Ministry of Education.

Besides many important efforts I had, I am very proud that the most well-known and pioneering mediators are my students and some of them so far became the first mediation trainers of the country after the Mediation Law in 2012.

In 2010 I studied philosophy & cooperative religion. As a part of these works I have been to Egypt and Northern Cyprus and I was at workshops on Turkish Kurdish issues as a mediator. At the moment I study sociology at Istanbul University and just completed Family Consultancy Certification Programme.

I believe if not sustainable, peace at any level won't last. Concerning what the earth faces when it comes to natural resources, I strongly believe the next generations conflicts will be not on ethnical or religious issues as we experience today but rather be about natural resources such as food, water, etc. This is why I start to study sociology at Istanbul University and I am very proud of being one of the Founders of Sustainable Peace Sustainable Business Symposia.

Besides, I believe each of us, at citizen level, need to be more involved resolving issues; both national & international, so to say, as Grassroot Diplomats. With this vision, I am coordinating the Diplomacy School which has started at Girne American University with Partners such as MBB & Dulles University, in 2016. This is a very unique programme during which participants get trainings at 3 locations; Cyprus, Turkey & USA to be Grassroot Diplomats.

Mediation experience

I had mediation training in Vienna in 2000.

I decided to move back to Turkey to focus on mediation in Turkey in 2002.

In 2003, I trained judges and social workers at Sultanahmet Juvenile Court.

Between 2005-2015, I trained over 500 mediators in Turkey, Northern Cyprus and Egypt.

Besides private sector, I worked with and trained at Gaziantep EU Business Center, Kayseri Chamber of Commerce, Ankara Bar Association, Konya Chamber of Commerce, Denizli-Trabzon-Konya-Kayseri EU Business Centers, Ministry of Justice.

I organised different conferences on mediation in Turkey: 2005 International Mediation Conference, 2006-2007 Conferences with Ankara Bar Association and Kayseri Chamber of Commerce in which Jeremy Lack, Prof. Harold Abramson, Prof. Jaques Salzer, Giacinto Tommasini, Lino Barbasso, Prof. Guiseppe de Palo, Stefano Sedola and some other international mediators, CI Arb Europe Conference in Istanbul in 2009 with CI Arb Europe Team, 1st Turkish Mediators Congress in 2010 in Konya, co-organized Mediators Beyond Borders Istanbul Congress in 2012.

I organized different trainings in many cities in Turkey with Prof. Marco Turk, Giacinto Tommasini, Lino Barbasso, Prof. Jaques Salzer, Corinne de Jong, and many other international mediators.

I mediated mostly family business and commercial disputes, workplace disputes, some sports and intercultural disputes, very few family conflicts.

I wrote four books on mediation: School Mediation in 2005, Mediation in 21st Century in 2007, A Philosopher Mediator's Book of Awareness: Inisiasion Circle in 2009, A Successful Mediator's Handbook in January 2017.

I published the first Mediation Journal of Turkey; Arché in 2007-2008. From January 2017 on, we are starting the first monthly mediation e-journal of Turkey called Çözüm Bizim (Resolution is Ours).

Description of mediation style

When I finished mediation training in Vienna in 2000, I already had couple of trainers and most likely my style would have been facilitative mediation.

During the years and after each case I mediated and the trainings I delivered, I discovered that the most important issue was not how I mediated a case but what I enjoyed to mediate most. I believe that mediation is not only a profession but also a spiritual path in which a mediator can "grow up" beautifully. As it is in Turkish; "ara-bul-uculuk" mediation may mean a self search-find process. According to my experience, depending on what a mediator mediates, the process helps her/him to develop a deeper self-awareness which I believe, ables her to travel from inner peace toward a global one. For sure, the more she/he is aware of herself/himself, the better she/he assists the parties for reaching their own peace at any level.

Through the years I worked with many valuable mediators and Prof. Vibeke Vindelov, by her Reflexive Mediation, touched me most. I would proudly say that I am a reflexive mediator.

And as a reflexive mediator, below are my assumptions and values:

Understanding that conflicts are a part of life. Depending on how they are tackled they become either constructive or destructive Trusting that the parties know best what is good for them. They are experts on their lives.

Accepting that there is more than one reality.

That dialogue is desirable in every conflict.

Trusting that mutually satisfactory solutions can be reached if the parties wish it.

That individuality and relations go together.

That mutual interdependence leads to shared responsibility.

Feedback digest

Reviewer: Professor Vindeløv Vibeke (vibeke.vindelov@jur.ku.dk)

Latest Update: 2015-09-02 15:17:07

This feedback Digest is based on 58 feedbacks from 29 mediations, initially submitted over the period 2013-2015.

In assessing Deniz Kite Güner's abilities as a mediator and in reviewing all of the feedback from individuals who have been involved in her mediations over the past years, in all cases she garners top ratings by parties who have used her as a mediator. I note that of the needed skills as a mediator Ms Kite Güner is referred to as a very trustworthy and fair mediator who has an eye for every issue to be discussed, giving sufficient space for the parties to express themselves clearly, and that they felt heard.

Those who experienced Ms Kite Güner's organizational skills in setting up, explaining and preparing for the mediation reported that they efficiently were informed before mediation and that Ms Kite Güner laid out the ground rules before mediation began and at the start of the process.

A wide range of mediation skills have emerged from Feedbacks received in Ms Kite Güner's case. In particular her calmness combined with an enthusiasm and genuine interest in the parties as well as in the subject at stake. Also her ability to equally be a good listener and to bring the process forward has been explicitly mentioned. Mediating also in multi-national matters Ms Kite Güner was reported to have a high level of cultural sensitivity and to be a steadying influence when tensions among the parties increased.

All the parties, with no exception, experienced Ms Kite Güner's focused questions. In all mediations an agreement was reached and all parties reported to be satisfied with the agreement. Indeed, all of those parties responding had a good experience with Ms Kite Güner as a mediator and would try mediation again if needed.

Ms Kite Güner's experience stems from business mediation, either in family businesses or international corporations (textile producers, tourism companies, city planning companies etc.), and have mainly been regarding commercial, workplace or partnership disputes.

There have been absolutely no negative comments at all.
